

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed is a communication line connecting adapter which adequately connects an ordinary telephone, IP phone and modem/facsimile machine to a connecting party. The adapter comprises first to third switches, a line which connects a common terminal of the first switch to the modem/facsimile machine via a first DAA circuit, a line which connects a zeroth node terminal of the first switch to a public telephone line and a common terminal of the second switch, a line which connects a first node terminal of the first switch to a VoIP gateway via an SLIC, a line which connects the first node terminal of the first switch to a zeroth node terminal of the third switch, a line which connects a zeroth node terminal of the second switch to the VoIP gateway via a second DAA circuit, a line which connects a first node terminal of the second switch to a first node terminal of the third switch, and a line which connects a common terminal of the third switch to an extension line.